

Input

People who are especially talented in the Input theme have a craving to know more. Often they like to collect and archive all kinds of information.

General Academic Life Tips

- Save all notes and books from previous classes to create a personal library.
- Schedule time for seeking information that goes beyond what is required for your classes. The library and the Internet will be valuable in your search.
- You enjoy gathering information, possibly even from reading a dictionary or encyclopedia.
- Start a filing system for interesting and potentially useful articles you have read.

Extracurricular Activities

- Join groups in which you can use your knowledge, such as community discussion groups, book clubs, and pre-law society mock trial groups.
- Become involved in extracurricular activities that further your learning, such as science clubs, language clubs, or literary organizations.
- Study about fascinating places to travel. Gather information, and go!

Career Development Tips

- Collect as much information as you can about the careers that interest you. Go online, read books, collect all the brochures at the career center and at career fairs. The more information you gather, the better your decision will be.
- Go to the career center and take several different career inventories. What does each one tell you about your interests? What career possibilities do they suggest you to explore?
- Environments that give you the freedom to pursue threads of information and that focus on informed decision-making are likely to bring out your best.
- You probably will enjoy a career in which you are always on the cutting edge of knowledge and you can gather and share valuable pieces of relevant information.
- Choose jobs that require you to be an expert collector and consumer of research. This type of environment will energize you.
- Interview media specialists, librarians, archivists, writers, information technologists, and others who work with large amounts of information on a daily basis. What do they find most rewarding about their work?
