Adjunct Faculty

Email: rmorgan@georgefox.edu

It has been my great blessing to be a member of the faculty community at George Fox University since 1996. My initial involvement was as a primary instructor at the Boise Center, and later I transitioned into the online teaching community. During my time at George Fox, I have taught at both the graduate and undergraduate level and have helped to create courses in the adult degree program. I embrace our university mission of being a Christ-centered educational community that prepares students spiritually, academically, and professionally to think with clarity, act with integrity, and serve with passion.

Academic Background

- MBA, Western International University
- BS, Business Administration, University of Phoenix

Expertise and Interests

In addition to over 30 years of teaching adult learners, my experience includes almost 40 years in the banking and finance industry, where I served in executive management with responsibility for leading the lending function of entire banks. I believe this combination of academic theory and practical business experience has provided me with a unique background that allows me to mentor students and prepare them for career success.

Primary Teaching Responsibilities

- MGOL 401 - Organizational Behavior
- MGOL 404 - Organizational Communication
- MGOL 410 - Financial Decision Making
- MGOL 412 - Data Informed Decision Making I
- MGOL 415 - Data Informed Decision Making II

Outside the Classroom

I am blessed with a “wonderful” wife, three “terrific” grown children and four “amazing” grandchildren. After retiring from the banking industry (four years ago), I started a small consulting firm and have spent much of my free time mentoring business owners and running a small international missionary service organization called “Mission Ready, Inc.”

In 2014, I wrote a book about “Mission Ready, Inc.” and present day indigenous missionaries serving the Lord in the most remote corners of Africa. The book is entitled Equipping Saints for Service and was blessed to receive four North American book awards.
