TRMA 571, 572, 573: The research project is not a course; we meet ONLINE monthly (Wednesday in Fall-Spring) for project check-ins

The following schedule outlines the term, days, and week, and sometimes hour of day of that term when a TRMA course is generally offered; schedules can change so please verify offerings at least 1 term prior to taking a course. Additional electives not listed are also offered on a yearly basis.

Most TRMA courses are blended (50% online & 50% face to face - f2f), and will likely meet f2f for shorter time periods than indicated on the schedule. In some instances, f2f meetings may only occur on one of the two listed days. Each professor will post the actual f2f schedule at the beginning of that semester. Unless otherwise stated, all courses are 1-unit seminars, generally meeting 9am - 5pm for f2f class days.

Most courses are offered yearly. Bi-yearly courses are noted in green type along with the years in which they are offered. Courses with required prerequisites or other anomalies are noted in red type. If a course overlaps with a GCEP course, contact the TRMA professor as often this can be accommodated due to the online elements of the course. With professor permission, you will be able to register despite this schedule overlap.

Find TRMA course schedules at class.georgefox.edu under “TRMA – Trauma Response Services” on the subject dropdown menu, not the general GCEP list.

Additional Notes:

- All TRMA courses are open to graduate students or post-graduate professionals in the mental health, ministerial, education, and health care disciplines.
- GSC students may use TRMA courses to fill elective requirements. TRMA courses may be double-counted as electives and to fulfill post-grad certificate requirements.
- Some Block B courses (for ex, some TRMA 585s; 543, 544) are profession-specific so have enrollment restrictions as noted on the University course schedule.
