

Continuing Education Opportunity - Online

Oregon Writing Project Collaborative at George Fox University

Teaching and Writing in the K-12 Classroom

June 25 - July 8, '17

Participants will explore process-based writing, writing-to-learn, and instructional writing activities designed to engage students in K-12 classrooms. Workshop participants will read, write, and gather class materials to encourage and teach student writers. Online format will allow participants to work from any location, at their own pace, and according to their own schedule. No special computer skills required.
